intro

This issue of the Spiritry Mind is a curated work; a collection of freshly selected pieces from the past and present, chosen by intuition for their particular relevance to me. It represents where I stand amid the collective unconscious at this time. There's nothing new under the sun, and cycles have a way of layering a message until it grows sturdy and strong enough to stand on its own. It awakens as needed, and adjusts itself to accommodate the situation at hand. May this offering provide inspiration, information, and nourishment for the journey.

From Inventory to Invocation: Calling Inner-Self Forward

Curating is the gathering together of individual pieces to make a cohesive collection with an aligned meaning. Calling the Inner-Self forward is an act of curating energy that helps you create your desired outcomes. I have been teaching for many years about the wealth and power of Spiritual Currency. I invite you to gather words, music, images, and intention to curate, cultivate and craft your vision. I challenge you to do as Nelson Mandela said, "..make manifest the glory of God within..."

Take a moment of singular focus and attention. Read this from cover to cover. Use these word notes to fuel your best expressions.

Answeringness

This is what we have. This is who we are. This is what we do:

We answer life.

We enlarge ourselves in order to occupy the places we must go

We expand according to the anointing upon us and the ase within us

We grow in proportion to the take at hand

We become who we need to be to do what needs to be done

We wield the natural and supernatural tools at our disposal

We invoke commune embody divine

Whole Holy Beloved

May pleading begging longing have no place in you No need to stand outside yourself
 struggling for a blessing

Neither bereft nor forsaken consider yourself Gathered
 You are Answered-Prayer and your name shall be called
 Whole Holy Beloved

Unapologetic

That which I have done without apology has been most rewarding for me
 Most efficacious useful relevant and necessary There's something to be said for moving beyond embodied restrictions internalized oppressions Shoulds oughts and supposed to be's
 There's a force that comes with answering unapologetic hunger and impulses
 A liberation that is born from pursuing unabated and unrelenting desire

taking inventory

I am told that nothing is unto itself
Only that which I bring to it
That I assign meaning
Attribute power
Confer beauty

I give meaning and substance; I make it something and I can make it nothing. It is from this place of power that I create my world and influence life around me. What stirs God? What stirs me? What rouses the spirit of God in me? By what am I affected? What turns me on, gets under my skin, awakens the spirit within me? Always be asking these questions and know the answers.

How and what am I feeling? What are my thoughts about this? Is this building me up; strengthening me; inspiring me? What feels drawn to those words; that music or offering? What do I want to stir and awaken in me? What do I want to feel? Where do I feel led to explore further? What energy do I seek? What do I want to build and then express? What will help me prepare? Get in the mood for whatever I am about to do. What am I in the mood for? What do I have a taste or craving for? What am I building or creating now and what is needed at this point of the process? What turns on my power; activates my gifts? What is my process or trigger? What does it for me, every time? Most of the time? What works; what doesn't? What ritual, practice, formula, or technique? What do I need to feel to be able to do what I do? What turns me on, spirit, soul, and body? Is it one thing or a combination of things? What do I want to focus on; what energies do I want enhanced and strengthened and brought to the fore?

What offering will the spirit of me receive, appease, cajole, arouse, awaken, engage? What will please? Satisfy, excite, garner the cooperation of. What food, music, colors, words, images, sentiments, etc. What are the rules to get me? What pleases me? What is special or intimate that you could offer me? What could I offer myself? What would soothe, satisfy, comfort me? What to do to make me more amenable. What lifts my spirits? What puts me in a good mood? Makes me happy? Triggers my joy? Can I give it to myself? Do it for me? Am I waiting for it and from whom? Is it something I can provide? What is it, exactly? The essence and substance of it? What is the feeling of it, regardless of its physicality?

Whom am I being? What aspect of myself is dominant now? Which self can handle this? Does it have to be one at a time or all aspects of me at the same time?

My eternal response is to always be focusing on what pleases me: sunshine, good food, fun, people, music, celebration, hospitality; loving, dancing, traveling, writing, speaking, reading, magic, and creativity. The list is endless; my answer is singular: whatever delights my soul.*

I Wonder

It'll be interesting to see what spiritual resources will show up to assist me at this time Which of my word-children will make it their business to come sit with me for a spell
What dormant word awakened which message deeply ingrained and implanted will arise bubbling to the surface
Which body of my work my creations what combination of seeds sown and intentions set will organize themselves in some coherent cohesive manner which poem each verse bone to its bone willing to take on flesh and sinew in order to show up in person and see about me

"They've had what they've been searching for in them all along. I don't know what's in you. You'll have to find that out for yourself. But I do know one thing: you'll never find it in the safety of this room. I tried that all my life. It doesn't work. There's a whole world out there. And you'll have to begin by letting people see who you really are."

Diana Ross as Dorothy in The Wiz

discrepancies

Do not concern yourself with the seeming discrepancy between who you are in your inner reality, and how you may appear to be to others. Do not try to fix or adjust what you feel may be off; just align with yourself. Don't doubt your self-expression. Stop twisting yourself up, trying to see what others see. Your only job is to be wholly you, authentically expressing who you really are. Don't try to control others' perceptions of you. People will see, feel, and experience what they're supposed to in your presence. And much of it will have little or nothing to do with you. Just let it be. Do you. Let the Blessing that you choose fall wherever and however it will.

Although your inner reality largely determines your outer reality, the two don't always feel like they're matching up. You may feel poised one minute, and awkward the next. It's ok. Choose the trait you want to identify with the most and lean into it. Be okay with knowing that you're both, simultaneously. The difference lies in what you focus on and where your attention goes most often. The mysterious power of vulnerability kicks in when you honor yourself, allow grace, make peace with apparent discrepancies, and share the Blessing that you are, regardless. Others will be blessed as a natural consequence. *

midpoint of summer reading

Calafia, maiden of flames - Aries

Can you stand in calm confidence amid others who disagree with you or don't understand your perspective? Can you stand in your truth even when standing alone? Of course you can. It's called Life, and Calafia, the black warrior goddess of California, is more than capable of showing you the ropes when it comes to standing up for yourself and what you believe in. She knows how to stand and she knows how to fight. You have your own version of this energy within you; one that refuses to back down when confronted with a contrasting reality. The intensity of summer's midpoint accurately reflects and expresses the passion of this Maiden of Flames.

As summer rages on, you'll likely find it impossible to swallow bullsh, or tolerate lukewarm commitments, slow mental processing or lazy followthrough. A strong urge to buck the system (assertively address your concerns) will poke at you until you address what's been crawling under your skin since the solstice. Whatever is bothering you, let it out. Say something. Present your point of view as clearly as you can. When presenting your unique perspective and possibly odd way of handling things, it may seem like you are standing alone before a council of elders guarding the status quo as if their lives depended on it. Your job is to find a way to clearly articulate your message and/or solution in a way that can be received and understood. While some will always find a reason to not agree or shoot down any progressive ideas, you might be surprised by a few supporters in the crowd. The twist here is that sometimes your strongest advocates and allies may not be of the flesh and blood variety, but members of your invisible court: spirit guides, ancestors, angels, consorts, and other entities. In other words, your Help might not be who or what you think it is. God works in mysterious ways his wonders to perform.

The quicker you accept the reality of your visible and invisible cheerleaders, the easier it will be to rally, organize and lead them, and turn your ideas into meaningful action.

Manipulation, six of blades

Six of blades speaks about survival, strongly suggesting that you stay vigilant at this time. There are things going on around you that you do not want to see because you may feel powerless to change them. 'Manipulate' means to work with the hands skillfully. We tend to follow definitions that speak of unscrupulous behavior. It's time to take another look and reclaim language by leaning toward definitions that support and include the spiritual, magical, and metaphysical aspects of our everyday lives.

Faithful as ever, you keep trying to negotiate peacefully and come to reasonable conclusions about your life while under the threat of erasure by people who could care less about you or your feelings. Sometimes you have to just count your blessings, cut your losses, and take the zero because the kumbaya moment you've been looking for ain't gonna happen. Remember that you are the product of a different reality than the one being pushed by the status quo. This is when you stand up, and the Faith in you looks directly into the face of so-called reality and says, I know something different. Since when have you ever been subject to the dictates of the world? You were born of faith. Live like the magical being you are and put an end to the game by refusing to play. Stake your claim, draw and respect your boundaries, and watch the outer world adjust - willingly or not - to the internal changes you have made.

There is medicine for every situation. Your work is to find the right remedy for what's troubling you. Be aware that you may have to forgo 'niceness' in order to tap into the strength and energy necessary to bring about the changes you seek. Although it may be imperceptible by human standards, there is a powerful internal shift you can make. Seek wise counsel, and have your intuition at the ready.*
