Spiritry Autumn Reading

Building Spiritry Community

& Manifestation

Creation and manifestation are two sides of the same coin. All acts of creativity are born in the realm of the invisible, and manifestation is when that invisible reality becomes visible. What is it that you want to see made manifest in the physical world that you already possess in the spiritual realm? What have you been holding in spiritual escrow that you are now ready to pluck out of obscurity; to set it apart from all your other desires and treasures? What dormant dream are you ready to awaken and engage? On what are you ready to focus your attention until you are holding it in your hand? Yes, you're always blessed, always powerful, always free, always abundant. But what do you want to see manifest in your life at this time? This Autumn's mantra is: "This, Me, Here, Now!" In other words, be as specific and focused as you can in choosing which of your existing invisible treasures you want to see manifest in the here-and-now. Bring yourself back to center when you find your attention wandering. Don't allow your specially selected dream for this season fall back into a place of anonymity. ✧

Autumn Reading Creation, One of Flames

“Creation is finished. Creativeness is only a deeper receptiveness, for the entire contents of all time and all space, while experienced in a time sequence, actually coexist in an infinite and eternal now. In other words, all that you ever have been or ever will be – in fact, all that mankind ever was or ever will be – exists now. That is what is meant by creation, and the statement that creation is finished means nothing is ever to be created, it is only to be manifested. What is called creativeness is only becoming aware of what already is. You simply become aware of increasing portions of that which already exists. The whole of creation exists in you, and it is your destiny to become increasingly aware of its infinite wonders and to experience ever greater and grander portions of it. If creation is finished, and all events are taking place now, the question that springs naturally to the mind is ‘what determines your time track?’ That is, what determines the events which you encounter? And the answer is your concept of yourself.”

–Neville Goddard, The Power of Awareness

Consider the possibility that what you may perceive as lack of a clear and definite answer to prayers about the next phase of your journey, may actually a very clear and powerful response from the universe-- a blank canvas!

Creation, one of flames, is the card of conception, and carries the flames of new beginnings. The energy is new enough that it can still be extinguished if you change your mind at this stage. If you are diligent, you could cover a lot of ground in the space between realms simply by remaining tuned into the present creative vibe.

Dream and imagine with abandon. Listen to the secrets whispered in your ears by faithful spirit guides and angels who can see your vision and help bring it into fruition.

Don't be surprised if you find yourself pregnant with ideas planted long ago that are just beginning to take root after years of surviving on the rocky ground of fear and doubt. Love the process, and don't worry about the details.

Imagining is easy; maintaining the momentum your excitement has generated is the challenging part. Commit to your project for as long as it seems worthwhile and beneficial to you. You have the right to change your mind; only do so responsibly. Cut the energy patterns no longer desired, so as not to leave them dangling in the cosmos. In other words, clean up after yourself. If you feel you need assistance in manifesting your vision, this is the time to ask; you are irresistible when your joy is full and your excitement is high. These things are contagious, and you would be sure to garner some serious support.

If you feel it's too soon to share your ideas, honor that feeling and keep it to yourself for the time being. Share your dreams with your invisible Helpers and record your thoughts in your journal. Bless a candle with your intentions, and then bless your intentions. This is not the time for editing and carving away at your new ideas. Simply let it run wild for the time being. It will soon let you know what it intends to be; what form and shape it will eventually assume. It will reveal to you its name, and invite you to shape it with your highest, deepest will. Seek the face of God within and know that all the necessary material resources have already been provided—you can find them in your heavenly bank account.

There is a lot of fertile energy around that could result in pregnancy. Be clear about what you want to create, conceive, carry, birth and nurture. It could even be an aspect of yourself you want to see blossom and grow stronger.

You have the power of choice and the power of will to make it happen—or not happen. Use your imagination to go through a complete scenario in your mind of various ways that things could turn out and then see if you still desire a particular course of action.

It always takes others to help you fully manifest your vision. You can ground your will and desire in the support and communal energy of those who love and believe in you. They can help keep you from going over the edge and provide extra pairs of ears and eyes when you need them most. It is imperative that you trust and feel extremely comfortable around those with whom you share the intimacies of your dreams visions and desire. The slightest bit of negativity could destroy the delicate process and you may have to start all over.

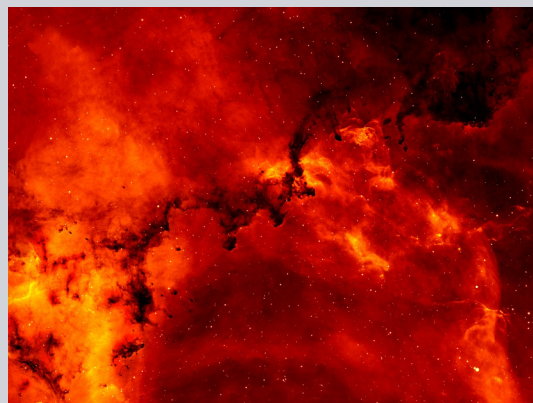

You will be a virtual magnet this season, attracting people who didn't know you existed before. They may not even be able to identify the source and reasons for their attraction. Your only job is to be yourself—you don't have to agree to anything you don't want to. Don't be afraid to ask for what you want, but be sure that the terms are fair and clear, and in writing. When this energy begins to dissipate in the next couple of months, you don't want anybody crying amnesia regarding their promises to you.

Autumn heralds the start of something big. Tap into your magical ability to make things happen, because everything is aligned in favor of you conceiving and creating something of great value. Flexibility and creative license are yours for the asking.

"ones" speak of newness. What will you do with this fertile energy? Impregnate somebody; disseminate pieces of your dream into the hearts and minds of people all around you and watch them blossom. Spread delicious morsels of your essence wherever you go, ensuring that there will always be a part of you that remains. Leave parts of yourself in the forest, in the sand, on the banks of a river, in the side of a mountain. Use your spiritual authority to bless the projects you believe in and see them take off. Send your will and your words anyplace you are unable to physically get to at the moment.

It's all about you. At this stage of the game, it's really important that you think about yourself. Though it may sound selfish, this is an opportunity for you to think about what you want and need. So many times we can hardly hear our own thoughts about a matter because we are so busy replaying the wishes of others in our minds. You may have to get someplace by yourself so that you can hear yourself think. Get quiet and allow your truest desires rise to the surface. When left to your own devices, what would you choose for yourself? If it were not for money issues, family issues, friends, and job stuff, what would you do, have, and say?

Unhampered by the opinions of others, who would you be? When you ultimately return to Source, what do you want to have accomplished in your life? Above all, come up with as many creative ways as you can to reproduce yourself in this lifetime. ❄

How to Get It, Spend It, and Save It

Sign Up for Currency Coaching Today.

"Spiritual Currency: How to Get It, Spend It, and Save It" is a coaching program I designed to help you take your spiritual development to the new level by creating, activating, and managing your Spiritual Currency Portfolio.

"Currency" is a term I use to describe sacred words and things--quotes, lyrics, scripture, images, symbols, songs--that embody and express your spiritual treasures, gifts and blessings. Just as with monetary currency, spiritual currency is something that can be acquired, saved, exchanged, and spent.
